We The People

Going the extra mile

To the Editor:

The discussion of family values in this year's campaign drove home the point that people are turning back to their communities, they are looking for those acts and relationships that give their lives meaning. The Hospice Program at the Visiting Nurse Association of Central Massachusetts has nurtured a culture where our staff and volunteers exhibit that dedication for "going that extra mile" for our patients and their families.

I've been involved in the Hospice Program for many years and the level of commitment and caring displayed by everyone associated with it still amazes me. It gives me a deep and abiding respect for these people. When I look around at the VNA's Hospice Program, I see individual after individual who continuously demonstrate these values. The nurses, the therapists, the home health aides, the social workers, chaplain, volunteers and all our community supporters who make our work possible.

It is difficult to ignore the pain and suffering a family experiences when a loved one is terminally ill. Yet it is also difficult to reach out to offer to help. Most of us are at a loss as to what we can do in these situations. The hospice team though is fully prepared. They have the training, the expertise and most of all the personal commitment to reach out each and every day.

Every November is designated National Hospice Month. It's an opportunity for us to recognize and appreciate the wonderful people who work together as a team to make a difference for hundreds of Millbury and Sutton area families. For all of us who have depended upon your assistance and all of us who may need your support in the future, I thank you. Gloria Powaza

Millbury Selectmen's Meeting Digest

Board discusses zoning violations

By Edward J. Cooney

MILLBURY - The November 10 Selectmen's meeting convened at 7:00 p.m. Board member Gerry Bleau was absent.

Veterans Agent

Administrative Assistant Earl Chase reported that he has learned that it is not required that the Veterans Agent, who also serves as burial agent, be a resident of the town which he serves.

Chase also said he has not passed on any information to the Finance Committee on whether or not to consider re-instituting a full-time position for the Veterans Agent. "No proposal has been made," Chase said, "as I was awaiting the Board's direction to do that."

Town owned land

The Board approved going out to bid on a piece of town land on Sutton Road that Mass. American Water Company has expressed interest in buying for a pumping station to provide the homes in that area with more pressure.

According to Chase, the appraised price of the land, as indicated by the company's appraisal, is $12,000. He also noted that the lot is not a buildable lot because of its size. The water company would have to seek a variance from the town to put up a pumping station.

Board Chairman Jude Cristo suggested that the specs be written in such a way that they would comply with the proposed use for the lot.

Transformers

Chase referred to two letters in each member's packet, one from Mass. Electric Vice President Nancy Sala and another from Millbury-Sutton Chronicle Editor Andree Belisle on the subject of allegations that power company transformers containing PCB's may have been buried on land adjacent to one of the company's substations at the top of Cross Street.

Sala's letter asked that the EMF (Electro-Magnetic Field) Health Study Committee provide the electric company with information on the allegations.

Belisle's letter noted that the allegations came in the form of a request from her as a private citizen and not from the EMF Committee. She also noted that she is investigating the issue in her capacity as a journalist. She asked the power company to provide her with any information they may turn up.

Cristo asked his colleagues if they would like to support a request for an investigation which would include determining if the alleged burial occurred on land in Sutton or Millbury.

Lachance noted that Belisle, in her letter, stated that she received her information from an anonymous source. He said that while the Board of Selectmen usually does not honor anonymous sources, he would not have a problem with Cristo's suggestion and voted along with his colleagues to affirm that the matter be looked into by both the Department of Environmental Protection and Mass. Electric.

Town Meeting Articles

The Board met briefly with Sylvio Bourdeau who was scheduled to discuss the process for forwarding two articles approved at the recent October 27 town meeting to the legislature in order to seek an enabling act to put the recall and referendum petitions on the ballot of the annual town election for voter consideration.

Cristo told Bourdeau that the Town Clerk today forwarded a copy of the town meeting vote of approval for both articles to State Representative Paul Kollios for filing with the legislature during this session.

Early Retirement Program

According to Chase, there is nothing further to say at this time relative to the early retirement incentive program voted at the special town meeting. "I have received inquiries asking about the Board of Selectmen's position on the program," Chase said. "I have told them there has not been any decision as yet but expect that you as a board will consider that after the first of the year during the budget process."

Cristo said the Board will have to look at the pros and cons. "It's tough to get a handle on this as some people who say they will (retire) may change their minds. They have some control over that; we don't."

Lachance said there is a "kicker" in the program as he believes the cafeteria workers in the school department are not paid out of town funds but out of a revolving account for the cafeteria.

Chase said the monies for retirement would come from the Worcester County Retirement Fund.

Lachance said the funds are not in the town budget. "The town will have to give the figures to (School Department) Business Manager Sue Pierce," he said.

Chase said anyone who retires is paid out of the Worcester County Retirement Fund.

Sylvia Bourdeau remarked that the Treasurer cuts the pay checks for town employees and makes the appropriate deductions. "I don't understand how it comes out of the revolving account for pay purposes."

Selectman Bernie Plante stated, "I would like to know how that happens myself."

New Year's Eve request

The Board tabled a request from Wheels Roller Skating Rink manager Randy Lennox for a permit to hold all night skating at his rink on New Year's Eve. It was suggested that he discuss the matter with the Chief of Police.

Lennox agreed to the suggestion. He also said that there have not been any complaints, to his knowledge, about the operation of the rink.

Over the limit

The Board opted to have the Police Chief, the Zoning Agent, and the Assistant Zoning Agent in to discuss a situation at Paul DiBaro's Grafton Road Automotive involving the storage of trucks on the property.

A similar issue involving the storage of more than the allotted number of vehicles under the town's bylaws at Custom Auto Service & Sales on Rte 146 was raised by Gauthier. He strongly urged his colleagues to do something to bring the owner in compliance with the requirements and conditions of the license and the town by-law. Gauthier noted that the owner, Ed Quinlan, has been

Grafton/Riverlin intersection site of yet another accident

By Andree A. Belisle

MILLBURY - A Friday the 13th accident at the intersection of Riverlin and Grafton Streets closed off a portion of the roadway for nearly four and one half hours while heating fuel was removed from a tanker truck involved in the mishap.

No serious injuries were reported in the accident, which occurred at approximately 7:30 a.m. between a 1985 Plymouth station wagon driven by Stanley Pogorzelski, 81, of Pineland Avenue, Millbury, and a 1977 Ford short tanker truck, owned by Franchelle Equipment of Worcester, being driven by John Auger, 22, of Captain Peter Simpson Road, also in Millbury.

Officer Linda S. Burnett's report stated that Pogorzelski was traveling South on Riverlin Street, stopped at the stop sign, and proceeded to turn left "but failed to complete the left turn onto Grafton Street before causing (the) accident..."

Auger was traveling West on Grafton Street and had the right of way. According to the report, Auger tried to break hard in an attempt to avoid a collision. When the collision occurred, the impact sent the truck onto its side.

Pogorzelski was issued citations for a stop sign violation

TIME TO LIGHT UP?

According to Det. Sgt. Lincoln Barton of the Millbury Police Department, the intersection has been the site of nine accidents in 1992 alone. In 1991, the site earned the distinction of having the most accidents (13), followed by Routes 146 & 20 with 14 this year and 10 in 1991. Other intersections, in order of # of accidents: 146 & 122A (9 in 1991 and 2 in 1992; Grafton Road & Wheelock, 8 in 1991 and 4 in 1992; Canal & Howe, six in 1991 and 3 this year.

and for a license restriction violation (corrective lenses).

Quick action by Fire Department personnel and representatives of the Board of Health kept the spill of oil to a minimum.

According to Police Chief Richard Handfield, early attempts to right the truck, which was carrying approximately 1600 gallons of oil, were called off by Fire Chief Philip Day, Jr. because of the potential for danger if the tank were to rupture while the truck was being righted.

Sgt. Stephen Webb talks with Stanley Pogorzelski.

brought before the Board before and told explicitly and clearly that there is to be no more than 12 unregistered cars at one time on the lot. "He is in violation of the town bylaws from what I have observed," said Gauthier.

Lachance said these are hard times and the business owner is trying to make a living.

Gauthier again alleged that Quinlan is not in compliance with the bylaw.

Plante agreed, noting that he goes by that way daily to work and has observed more cars than allowed under the license.

Gauthier said pictures are available that show more cars than there should be on site.

Lachance said the cars may be in for repairs.

Gauthier said he has no problem with properly registered cars, but is concerned with an excessive number of used cars being displayed.

"The guy doesn't care," Lachance said, "he's struggling to make a living."

"I hate to say this," Gauthier replied, "but if this was happening in your neighborhood, you would understand this. We represent the whole town."

"Do I see anyone out there complaining?" Lachance asked. "Did we get letters of complaint?"

Chase responded that there was one unsigned complaint and one complaint he received personally.

Lachance said they would be cutting the legs out from under Quinlan.

"He is not following the by-law," Gauthier argued.

"I haven't received any letters of complaint personally," Lachance said, "and until that happens...I haven't received any complaints."

Gauthier said he has received complaints. Lachance said he wasn't disputing that fact.

Gauthier then suggested that Lachance go by the establishment and look for himself.

Lachance said he would go tomorrow and check.

Plante said he, too, would check on the situation.

Transfer Station

Cristo reported that employees at the Transfer Station are informing residents that they will be limited to dumping only trash bags through the rest of the year. He remarked that this has been a problem every year as the town faces the prospect of exceeding its tonnage allotment at Wheelabrator. "Commercial haulers are not as regulated as much as the residents who pay their $15 use fee and are told up front they can bring almost everything," Cristo said, "and are now being told different because we are in danger of going over our allotted tonnage of 11,315 tons. We don't impose any type controls on the commercial trash haulers who are, in the meantime, bringing trash up to Wheelabrator which contributes to our overall tonnage. It's too bad the homeowner has to suffer."

The board voted unanimously to invited the Board of Health to next week's meeting to discuss the matter.

Insurance Policy

Chase reported that the insurance policy covering professional personnel would be running out as of midnight. Three bids were received, including one from the present agent, C.D. Whitney, for $11,708. A second quote was for $17,000 and a third for $12,000. Both the second and third had deductibles from $2500 to $5000.

Cristo questioned the lateness of the information being presented to the Board.

Chase said the last quote came in on November 2nd.

Cristo noted that the town can't pay more than the $11,000 budgeted and suggested that Chase go back to Whitney Insurance and see if they will go with the $11,000. "If you get a negative reply," he said, "we will ask for a 30 day policy and re-bid the insurance coverage."

"It seems to me," Plante stated, "that to bring this before us at this late date puts us in a difficult position."

"We can discuss that with Mr. Chase later," Cristo replied. "The point is, we have to make a decision."

Chase said the history of the policy shows that there have not been any false arrest claims in over ten years.

The Board agreed to seek new quotes if there is no agreement for a price of $11,000 as budgeted.

Miscellaneous

Chase reported that an unfair labor practice has been filed against the town. The Board has yet to settle with the clerks and highway department, but has reached agreement with the Police Department. Chase did not reveal the nature of the charge.

Chase reported that Himmer Ambulance Service has acquired a management service group, Ambulance Systems of America, who will probably take over the service eventually. Himmer will continue to provide service to Millbury at all times out of Millbury and will now also have supplies in town which will eliminate the need to go into Worcester to replenish them.

On Chase's recommendation, the Board approved the appointment of Town Planner Steve Bishop to act as liaison on a study committee to be set up under the administration of the Central Mass Regional Planning Commission (CMRPC). The study committee will include representatives from Millbury and Worcester as part of a grant for a joint study for another industrial park along Rte. 20.

Chase announced that the former Tile International building in the Millbury Industrial Park will be used by Massachusetts Electric as a training school for employees.

Chase reported that Federal Hill Road, Stowe Road, and Stone Road were voted as scenic roads at a 1980 town meeting. As a result, they were dropped from a list of roads for that designation that had been requested by Lachance. Dolan and Davis Roads will remain on the list for an article to be prepared for the next town meeting. There are no regulations as yet regarding scenic roads but the Planning Board will be working on that issue.

The Board voted to send a letter similar to one sent by the Massachusetts Audubon Society to the Worcester City Manager, requesting that the city move forward on providing funds to upgrade the sewer pumping stations in the area of Broadmeadow Brook. Cristo noted that the brook feeds into Dorothy Pond.

The Board voted to grant a permit to Greater Media Cable to lay underground cable along Wheelock Ave under the Mass. Pike bridge and to replace the sidewalk.

A request from Police Chief Richard Handfield to be an impact bargaining member under collective bargaining as a result of potential layoffs which could impact his department was approved 3-1 with Lachance opposed.

Another Point of View

Two Tough Months Ahead!

By Lawrence Moore

We hold these truths to be self evident: Clinton was elected by only 43% of the roughly 50% of those eligible to vote. Cynically examined, that could mean he has a mandate from only 22% of the people who were eligible to vote. Taking the benefit of the doubt, let's say the non-voters would have supported the candidates in the same proportion as did the voters. That's probably not true, since certainly some non-voters stayed away from the polls because they were disenchanted with the choices offered to them. This could go on and on, but the obvious conclusion is that President-Elect (will we still call him Bill, as in Jimmy?) Clinton was not the overwhelming choice of an overwhelming majority of the populace.

In this presidential year, concerns about the economy, the emergence of Ross Perot, the take-over of TV talk shows, and the usual charges and counter-charges combined to draw the largest voter turnout in memory. Major problems facing the country have grown in public awareness as never before. Everyone seems to have an opinion about the defense budget, welfare, health insurance, the infrastructure, the environment, foreign trade and on and on. The media, faced with the necessity of offering hot potatoes to an avid public, is playing the affirmative and negative stories to the hilt. As a result, instead of accepting the decision of our system and uniting behind a new leader, our people are confusedly variously hoping for the best, seeking a middle ground, or predicting dire consequences.

To date, Clinton has made three decisions. Each decision has been subjected to scrutiny, criticism, and praise, depending on the observer. The anxiety level of the average Joe keeps rising. Who, considering his lack of personal knowledge, is he to believe? Who is right and who is wrong?

Warren Christopher is maligned as an ex-Carter State Department official, praised for his post-Carter accomplishments. Vernon Jordan is maligned as a Washington Insider and a lobbyist, praised for his legal and corporate accomplishments. The Economic Security Council proposal is maligned as foolish, impossible to function, a duplication of established functions, and is condemned to an early death. Other critics, equally competent, praise the idea as genuinely productive, a step in the right direction, and a prerequisite to harnessing the economic power of the United States.

What is the average citizen to do? The election is over, concern has not vanished. Control is beyond each of us now. Our only choice is hope.

Your choice or not, Clinton is President to be. We must hope that his vaunted intellect will guide him in collecting information, seeking counsel, and making decisions. He will not function in a vacuum. His word will not be law. He must advise and convince, the Congress must advise and consent. We must hope that he will work with all the members of the Congress and that his appointments will be the best available regardless of Party. Most important, we must hope that we have chosen a superior President. Hope will get us through the two tough months ahead.

Beacon Hill Roll Call

BOSTON - There were no roll calls in the House and Senate last week. Formal sessions and roll call votes are scheduled to resume November 16.

Among the major pieces of legislation likely to be considered before the conclusion of the current legislative session in January is Governor Weld's economic development package. Weld unveiled the package in an address to the legislature shortly after the September primaries. The governor believes the plan will trigger some $1 billion in new investment in Massachusetts.

Key provisions of the Weld package include a phase out of the capital gains tax; an increase in the investment tax credit from 1% to 3%; establishment of "enterprise zones" in poor urban areas to offer economic incentives to businesses investing in the area; creation of revolving funds to help businesses build manufacturing plants in the state and to help small businesses expand their operations; and spending $100 million in each of the next five years for roads, bridges and other projects.

The Democratic leadership has recently indicated it supports the concept of some of these initiatives and will likely propose its own version of some of them while rejecting others.

During the 1992 session, several amendments dealing with similar or related economic proposals were considered by the House. This week, "Beacon Hill Roll Call" reviews the votes of Representatives Richard Moore (D-Uxbridge) and Paul Kollios (D-Millbury) on these roll calls. All the proposals were in the form of amendments to budgets.

CAPITAL GAINS (H 5317 and H 5600) House 113-39 and 105-46 rejected amendments reducing the capital gains tax. The amendments link the tax rate to how long an asset is held before it is sold and establishes a range from 12% for an asset held for less than a year to no tax for one held for more than six years. Amendment supporters said this reduction will stimulate the economy, encourage individuals to invest in businesses and finally help the state shed its old anti-business and anti-job growth label. Some opponents said the cut will cost $138 million over the long run and will benefit only a handful of people. Others said this is a graduated tax which is unconstitutional. Moore and Kollios voted against the capital gains tax reduction on both roll calls.

INVESTMENT CREDIT (H 5317) House 109-42, rejected an amendment providing for an additional 20% investment tax credit for businesses. Amendment supporters said this will stimulate the economy by offering an incentive for companies to buy new buildings, machinery and other equipment. Some opponents argued the amendment is complicated and should be the subject of a public hearing. Others said there are better versions of the same bill which will be considered in the near future. Moore and Kollios voted against the 20% credit.

ENTERPRISE ZONES (H 5600) House 109-40, rejected an amendment allowing for the creation and implementation of "enterprise zones." Amendment supporters said this will create jobs in depressed urban areas by offering various tax incentives to attract private investment. Opponents said this major program should be the subject of public hearings and claimed the legislature is working on a better version of the legislation. Moore and Kollios voted against the amendment.

TAX INCENTIVE (H 5317) - House 105-44, rejected an amendment giving a tax credit to corporations which increase their payroll costs. The credits range from 5% for a payroll increase between 15 and 30% to 90% for an increase of 100% or more. Amendment supporters said this will stimulate the economy and create jobs by reducing the cost of hiring new workers without lowering wages. Some opponents said the amendment contains too many loopholes and will do little for the economy. Others said the amendment should not be rushed through without a public hearing. Moore and Kollios voted against the tax credit.

EMPLOYEE TAX CREDIT (H 5600) House 147-2, approved an amendment providing a $500 tax credit for every full-time new employee hired by a business. Amendment supporters said this will help stabilize the state's business climate and encourage new job creation. Opponents said the state cannot afford this tax revenue loss. Moore and Kollios voted for the $500 credit.

Reception for Retiring Principal Ed Grant

SUTTON - On Wednesday, December 9, from 5-7 p.m., an open house reception will be held for Edward F. Grant, retiring principal of Sutton High School. To make reservations, call 865-6801 or 865-9270 by December 2nd.

Grant was first appointed as a math instructor in Sutton in 1957. He was appointed Assistant Principal in 1961 and Principal of the Sutton High School in 1965. In addition to those duties, he was named Assistant Superintendent of Schools in 1970.

He has been a member and active participant in many professional organizations, including: Central Mass. Secondary School Administrators Association; Mass. Secondary School Administrators Association; National Association of Secondary School Principals; Secretary and President of Clark Tournament Committee.

Grant also played a vital role in all aspects in the high school program as teacher and administrator for the past 35 years. He has served as a coach, athletic director, and director of many student organizations and clubs.

According to the announcement from the Sutton School Department, Grant "was, in fact, for many years Sutton High School. As principal, his leadership guided the high school through periods which could be called tumultuous at best, that is, overcrowded classrooms which led to double sessions, followed by our loss of accreditation, to being an active participant in the renovation of the high school, the regaining of our accreditation, and finally, playing a very vital and important role in the successful completion of our latest secondary school building project.

"When one thinks of Mr. Grant," the announcement continued, "you think of such adjectives as dependable, reliable, honest, hard-working, and dedicated to task. When one refers to the 'Rock of Gibraltar,' we who know Mr. Grant do not think of Prudential, but we think of Ed.

"We are asking all of the many friends and supporters of Ed to call and notify people that they know who would like to join with Ed on December 9, 1992. The program will consist of hors d'oeuvres and a cash bar. All those attending will have an opportunity to videotape a message to Mr. Grant."

Committee prepares for meeting

By Edward J. Cooney

SUTTON - Following the convening of the November 9 School Committee meeting and the acceptance of previous minutes, the Committee approved a motion by member Linda Roach to proceed to acquire a parcel of land on Boston Road across from the entrance to the High School as offered by the Judson family.

Superintendent Gordon Spence pointed out that if the Committee moves to acquire the land as offered, they must vote to accept the offer and follow that up with a town meeting vote. The property in question was described as a swampy, wet piece of land. "At least it would be a good buffer for the schools," Spence said.

Use of School Property

Spence reported briefly on the administration's sub-committee on the Use of School Property. He indicated that a policy presently in place should be followed. "You really haven't tested your policy yet," he said. The fee schedule in place will be followed for the private commercial use of school property and if adjustments are to be made, the Committee will approve them. Otherwise, the administration will use some discretion in scheduling and charges for time used.

Accept new building

Spence recommended that the School Committee consider accepting the new school building from the Building Committee tonight. The recommendation from Spence follows on the action taken by the Sutton School Building Committee who voted unanimously on November 2 to notify the School Committee that they have completed their responsibility to the secondary schools building project with the following exceptions:

- A. Any pending litigation and action thereto.
- B. The Sutton Building Committee will continue to be responsible for any expenditures made prior to November 2, 1992 and/or future expenses relating to legal costs incurred by action of the building committee i.e., past, present or future.
- C. If funds are available as a result of any favorable judgements from said litigation, the building committee will make recommendations regarding use of same. Any action will require town meeting action.

The Committee voted unanimously to accept the responsibility for administering and maintaining the school as outlined under "General Laws" and under the conditions outlined by the Sutton School Building Committee.

Meeting with selectmen

The Committee discussed preparations for a meeting with the Board of Selectmen scheduled for November 10. Spence said the budget dated July 7, 1992 will be used for discussion purposes. He then reviewed aspects of the budget that related to funds to maintain a balanced budget for FY '92, noting that there is some concern over whether or not the system will get through FY '93 with a balanced budget.

Spence compared the per pupil average costs for Sutton to contiguous communities, which he said are higher, and the amount of funding they receive because of their local effort. "If we do not show an increase in local effort," Spence said, "then there is a possibility we could get less in EEO monies next year as there could be a reduction which would show up on next year's Cherry Sheet from the state."

Noting a drop in percent of local maintenance since 1982-83, Spence suggested that the only hope for continued assistance from the state would be if the right school reform package is voted in this year by the legislature. He also called attention to the fact that the two major sponsors of educational reform, Roosevelt and Birmingham, are split on tenure, seniority, and how to fund the proposed package, which leaves some doubt as to what will come out and when it will come out.

Committee member Ann Fox noted that the Massachusetts Business Alliance has supported a strong reform bill and is getting tired of the inaction. "If this does not come through," she said, "we will see a voucher system."

Spence said that if there is no reform, there will be no monies directly earmarked for schools.

Roach said the Board of Selectmen has to be made aware of what is going on in Sutton. "We have, I think, cooperated too much," she said. "We are up against the wall. They have to respond and support us. We have done too much. We can't do it again." Roach also said she did not mean for her remarks to sound threatening.

Replacement for Principal

The Committee asked that the administration provide a report on several alternate administration alignments as a result of High School Principal Ed Grant's retirement, effective in January.

Roach, supported by the Committee as a whole, asked that the alternatives be prepared for beginning discussions as to how the Committee will proceed in making and reaching a decision on a replacement.

Kourey asked who would make up the job description.

Spence said the description would come from the administration and would have to be approved by the School Committee. He also said it should be understood that the system is financially strapped.

The Committee voted unanimously to have a commendation for High School Principal Ed

Grant included in the annual town report in appreciation of his long service and contributions to the Sutton Schools.

Miscellaneous

- The Committee voted approval of the Special Education Plan for the Sutton Schools as recommended by SPED Director Claudia Simonian. Simonian noted this was the second year of a new format for preparing a system-wide plan which includes policies, procedures and evaluations.

- The Committee approved a request from Band Director Mark Smith to allow the band to have a fund raiser which would involve soliciting funds by raking leaves for individual homeowners at a donation of $20 for a small yard and $25 for a larger than average yard.

- Spence gave a brief overview of the Massachusetts Assessment Test scores that will be released soon by the state. He said he was pleased with the results of grades 8 and 12 which showed scores that were higher than the state average in almost all areas. He also noted strong scores were achieved by Sutton students in writing skills and reading. "You will be pleased that you don't have to apologize," Spence said. "If you get blamed when scores are low, you should get accolades when scores are higher."

The meeting adjourned at 8:30 p.m.

BOH and School Committee plead their cases

By Alec G. Belisle

SUTTON - At the November 10 Selectmen's meeting, the board held general discussions with Joanne Lambert, representing the Board of Health, and members of the School Committee. Chairman Wally Johnson explained that these discussions are part of the selectmen's continuing policy to increase communication between the selectmen and the various town boards to heighten awareness of the concerns of each board.

Administrator's Update

During the Town Administrator's Update, Dexter Blois notified the board that Sutton will have a hearing before the Bankruptcy Court on November 23: Sutton Valley Corp., the developers of Colonial Acres, have filed for bankruptcy. At issue is a cash bond of $90,000 held by the town but which was listed as an asset of Sutton Valley Corp. The town cannot use this money to resurface Hartness, Leland, and McLellan roads until it is released by the court.

Blois told the board that the developers are not contesting Sutton's claim to the money, however, one creditor is. He also said the areas roads are presently in "pretty good" condition.

Johnson said that no matter what the court decides, "We've got to oil the road, and if we have to use our own money, we'll use it."

Selectman Dave Strieby asked about the disposition of the bond held by the insurance company.

Blois responded that it appeared that the town was going to have to take the insurance company to court for release of those funds.

Strieby suggested filing suit against the insurance company for the bond and legal expenses which the town will incur in the suit. He added that the board should reconsider the exemption of the sewer fees given to the developer.

The board previously voted to oil the roads as a temporary measure, making the road surfaces stable during the winter months and avoiding conditions that existed last winter.

Board of Health

Joanne Lambert, Chairwoman of the Board of Health (BOH), told the selectmen in response to a question from Johnson that the BOH needs a "Health Agent." The BOH is a five member board of volunteers which, Lambert said, has so many duties that it is unable to oversee them all. She explained that the board has responsibility for restaurant inspection twice a year (according to Lambert there are 43 such locations), housing inspections, lead paint inspections, percolation tests, and more. She stated that board members simply do not have the time to meet board obligations while holding down full time jobs and meeting their family obligations.

Lambert said that the BOH has twice gone before the town meeting with their appeal to hire a health agent. Both times the board was asked to wait. She said that some work is not getting done because the BOH does not presently have the resources to perform the work.

Lambert explained that the board charges fees for much of the inspection work it performs, and this money added to what the board has given to Cullinan Engineering in consultation fees could help defray the cost of a health agent. She said that the agent could be hired on a half time basis, perhaps even as a shared agent who would work part time for another town.

Lambert said the fees which are now paid to board members who do the inspections could be applied to the agent's salary.

The selectmen sympathized with Lambert and said they would look into the feasibility of hiring a part time agent. Johnson told her that in these fiscally troubled times, he could not promise her anything.

Lambert then suggested that a Technical Review Board be created, made up of heads of the Planning Board, the Board of Health and the Conservation Commission, which would meet once a month to, among other things, review plans and bring one another up to date on projects.

Strieby remarked that that was part of the original rationale for hiring a town engineer.

Lambert said when the town had an engineer, she could not avail herself of him because he lacked expertise in health areas.

Blois said that such meetings do occur on large projects.

School Committee

Present from the School Committee were members Linda Roach, Victor Kourey, Anne Fox, Alison Snyder and Superintendent Gordon Spence.

Roach told the board that this will be the third budget process in which she has participated. She said during her first process, the selectmen, finance committee, and school committee met together to decide what was in the best interest of the town. During the second budget process, the outcome was the same, and the school budget was reduced. "Now," she said, "we are starting what is for me the third process, and there is no more room for the school budget to go down; we are at the end. We have some hope in the fact that, at the state house, we have a legislative reform package that would give us more money. What I think we need to do," she continued, "is to really work together with the selectmen and the finance committee to follow this process through

Metacomet Land Trust expands service area

FRANKLIN - On October 27th, the fifth annual general membership meeting of the Metacomet Land Trust was held. The group voted to explore interests in the towns of Millville, Mendon, Uxbridge and Douglas. Several greenway corridors connect these towns, including the Charles River, the Blackstone River, and the Department of Environmental Management's (DEM) abandoned rail trail. Land protection along these common linkages will be a major goal in the trust's work over the next year.

A fundraising campaign was completed recently which enabled the trust to help preserve land known as the Blackstone River Gorge in Blackstone. Thirty thousand dollars was recently given to the DEM towards the purchase of 22 acres of river frontage. The land will become part of a bi-state park consisting of over 130 acres in Rhode Island and Massachusetts.

Metacomet is a private non-profit organization which is dedicated to protecting natural resources and preserving open space. All donations of land or contributions to preserve land are tax deductible to the extent allowable by law. For more information on any of the Trust's activities, contact Christie Anderberg of Maple Street, Franklin.

By Rosemary Waltos

The Millbury Public Library Fund is an endowment fund established to ensure the stability and growth of public library services for the Millbury community of today and the generations to come. The fund is invested and managed by the Greater Worcester Community Foundation.

Our objective is to develop, enhance and supplement the Millbury Public Library's collection, services and facility. This fund cannot be used to supplant revenues normally provided by the Town of Millbury funding authorities.

The 1980's were marked by an increase in the size of the library, growth in its collection, expansion of services, and automation of its business operations. The economic realities of the 1990's have left the library struggling to maintain the ground it gained; a grim reminder that fiscal viability cannot be taken for granted and that on the crest of the 21st century, no institution can rely solely on traditional funding sources.

Like you, we care about and are determined to maintain high standards of library and information services for both today's and tomorrow's users.

How can you help? Please join your friends and neighbors in support of your library and your community by contributing generously to the Millbury Public Library fund.

As a result of your support, the library will ensure public library services in perpetuity. Your support will also mean that we can supplement the library's collection in important areas such as children's books and business/financial reference materials as well as in the development of new services and programs. It will enable us to keep up with new information technology as well as help us to enhance our facility.

We want to thank you, in advance, for your contribution. More importantly, the future generations of Millbury Public Library patrons will come to thank you for caring for their library and information needs.

Cable TV Construction Underway in Millbury

WORCESTER - Greater Media Cable has begun construction of a state-of-the-art television system throughout Millbury as provided for in the new license between the Town and the company that was signed earlier this year. Subcontractor for the project is White Mountain Cable Construction Co.

"In a few limited areas," said Greater Media Cable spokesman Edward Goldstein, "construction will require brief shutdowns of the existing cable service before the new is activated." Advance notice of any shutdowns will appear on the Community Bulletin Board, cable channel 3, whenever possible.

Construction will occur simultaneously in several parts of town. Company officials noted that the presence of a construction crew on your street does not mean you are about to receive the new service. Crews will pass down each street four times to put up strand or rigid steel holding cable, to attach the more flexible transmission cable to the strand, to place and activate the various electronic components necessary for good picture quality, and to remove the old system.

Goldstein also said that in the spring, when neighborhoods are ready for new-subscriber installation or for switchover to the new system, residents will be contacted personally by company representatives who will have complete information about service, price, installation, or switchover procedures. Consequently, the public is asked not to phone the company for this information at this time.

"Greater Media Cable thanks the town for its cooperation during construction," Goldstein said.

From My Window on Farnsworth Court

By "Pastor Rae" Cameron

Believe it or not, once in a while I read something in the Chronicle other than my own column. Last week, we couldn't help but read Andree Belisle's article on domestic violence right here in our area towns. Detective Barton blames it all on being out of work and alcoholism, to which I very much agree. There is another dimension as well, and that is the feeling of low esteem caused by being out of work. A major part of our identity in our society is what we do for work, and if we are out of work, we lose that meaningful identity and strike out at the nearest person to us, our family. That "oldie but goodie" song said that, "We always hurt the one we love, the one we shouldn't hurt at all."

We just finished an election in which we said that we need a better economy, and here's hoping on that score. On the other hand, however, we said that economics are more important than morals and ethics and the family and the home. Already we see our defenses being dropped by including homosexuals into our armed forces, and doctors in our federally financed family clinics being able to advise our women on how to have an abortion.

The breakup of the family and its values is the beginning of the end. Today, over half of all weddings will end up in the divorce courts. In the church, we are very much aware of our part in that problem and we are taking steps to try and correct it. While pastoring up in Maine, I was introduced to a program for premarital counseling and for married couples who are either having problems in their marriage or would like to have a better marriage. It is called, "Prepare/Enrich." In comparing notes with my Roman Catholic colleagues, I discovered that they already have a very similar program. Praise the Lord.

When a couple comes for a wedding, we strongly advise them to take the Prepare Program. They sit down and answer 125 questions about their interpersonal relationship. They record their answers with a number two pencil dot on a prepared form. This form is then sent into Prepare/Enrich Inc. and they run the two forms through a computer that gives out several pages of a report on the strengths and work areas of this relationship. These are then shared with the couple who can then build on their strengths and work on the weaker areas. This is not a pass/fail test, and no one is denied marriage on that basis, but it has been discovered that this program can predict which marriages will end up in divorce with over 85% accuracy. The Enrich Program for troubled marriages or those wishing to improve their marriage is done quite similarly, only with a different set of questions. There is also a program for groups to be formed where they can share their experiences. This is for those who are seriously going together, are engaged, or have been married no more than five years.

It was my privilege to share this program with two of our local pastors and a fellow American Baptist. So now there are three of us right here in Millbury who can share this with you. The Reverend Clifford Davis and the Reverend Jane Haley and I would be only too glad to take you through this process to better your interpersonal relationships.

The old marriage ceremony included a statement that marriage was not to be entered into lightly or unadvisedly, but reverently, discreetly, and in the fear of God. My Bible tells me that marriage is honorable in the Lord. God bless the family and the home and may it survive these days in which we now live. Amen.

closely." Roach said that it is important that the selectmen and the finance committee join with the school committee in leveraging the reform package through. "We need that money desperately as well as the other components of it," she stressed.

Roach explained that the selectmen should recognize that Sutton was very lucky this year because it received $100,000 in EEOG (Equal Educational Opportunity Grant) money and $100 per student tuition for out-of-town students. "We used that to balance our budget," she said. "That's not what other school systems were able to do. That's a warning right there."

Roach went on to say that if the reform bill is not passed, Sutton will have to examine what its commitment is to education. She said that legislative pressure has to be placed immediately to get relief now. She said that there has to be a concerted local effort to support the legislation. "It's important that we all work together," she cautioned, "watch that bill, but yet understand what we might have to do."

Johnson said Roach was, in effect, telling the board that the town will have to be prepared to get the money for the school budget from somewhere if the reform package is not passed.

"It's so serious now, that I think we have to put aside any petty differences," Roach said, "and we have to ask what is going to happen to the Sutton school system if we don't get everybody's support."

Superintendent Spence then spent more than an hour detailing the budget shortfalls and accommodations that had to be made to balance the school department's budget this year. He explained in detail how precariously the budget was balanced with the illustration of the fuel budget which was made by anticipating a certain number of degree days and being able to obtain fuel at a certain price. He said that up to now, the degree days have been 37% higher than normal between July and November. Spence has allocated $48,000 for fuel, "which means," he said, "that if the fuel cost goes above $.58 cents and we go beyond the average usage of gallonage, we're in trouble."

Spence explained that Sutton cannot rely simply on the passage of the reform package because the bill includes a formula for reimbursements to towns. This formula is based on the town's average income and property value both of which are relatively high. Spence said that the average family income in Sutton is $49,000 and the average cost of homes in Sutton is $149,000. The town is expected, under the "local effort" formula to contribute a certain amount. "When you plug those things in, it may be, even in a school reform package, that Sutton is not going to come out as well as you would like it to come out," he said. "So I think what it boils down to is, I don't think the effort compared to the statistics is there, so I don't want you to be overly optimistic that the educational reform bill will solve all your problems, but it can't be worse."

Spence also enlisted the selectmen's support of the state reform bill.

Helping to protect the environment

Environmental Council members have received tremendous support for their project from fellow classmates and school personnel. Council officers Amy LaForte and Cheryl Godbout gave presentations to all grades on the first day of school to explain the project.

Currently, the students are picking up white paper only but hope to add more items to the program in the future. They are already involved in separating aluminum cans in barrels around the school.

A Point of Light

The following was submitted by the Millbury School Connection.

MILLBURY - Eleanor Willard is not just a "point of light," she is a whole "beam of light." Her duties as a Millbury School Connection Volunteer are varied and include such things as distributing fluoride to classrooms, Project Read, work at the Shaw School store and as a member of the yearbook committee at that school, chaperoning field trips, helping on Spree Day, helping to administer hearing and eye examinations and book fairs.

Eleanor grew up and attended school in Worcester where she now makes her home with her husband, Bruce. After graduating from Doherty High School, she went on to attend Ward School of Business and worked at Paul Revere Insurance Company. She has always been very involved with her nieces and nephew, so when her niece, Nina, asked her to volunteer at her school here in Millbury, Eleanor said yes. "I love the atmosphere at school. The kids always make me feel hopeful of the future when I am with them, and I go home feeling really good."

Besides volunteering in the Millbury Schools, she is very active at the Mercy Center in Worcester. She loves working with and helping her nephew, Al, who has special needs. She runs a social group consisting of fifty families with special needs individuals, fund raisers, coordinates square dances for young adults, and acts as the secretary of a human rights committee at the Center. Eleanor also serves as a coordinator for the recycling commission, Visions 2000 program.

When she is not volunteering, she likes to go to the theater in New York to shows like "Les Miserables" and "Phantom of the Opera."

Eleanor is very enthusiastic about volunteering in school and says, "It is great to be in the school system and work with the kids. I am sure if more people tried it, they would feel the same."
